EXPERIENCE AND FRESH FACES

POISED TO LEAD HUSKIES TO NEW HEIGHTS IN 2007-08

The 2007-08 UConn women's basketball team returns a wealth of experience while adding an infusion of new talent as it begins its quest towards advancing to the program's ninth Final Four and beyond.

Fresh off a season which saw all five starters average double-figure points for the first time since 1994-95, the Huskies are feeling confident that they can reach the lofty goals they have set for 2007-08 as they return all 12 letterwinners and five starters from the squad that advanced to the 2007 NCAA Fresno Regional Final.

In addition to the returning nucleus of talent from a year ago, Connecticut also will welcome a pair of McDonald's All-Americans in freshmen Maya Moore and Lorin Dixon.

Moore was a consensus national player of the year during her senior prep season and became only the second player in history to be honored with the Naismith Award, which recognizes the National High School Player of the Year, following both her junior and senior seasons.

Dixon also brings a winning past to Connecticut as she was a member of back-to-back Christ the King H.S. squads that won USA Today National Championships, with current UConn teammate Tina Charles.

Charles was a major reason for UConn posting a perfect 16-0 BIG EAST record in 2006-07 and earning the program's 15th BIG EAST regular season title. Charles shattered the UConn freshman records for blocks, rebounds and ranked second in points en route to winning BIG EAST and National Freshman of the Year honors.

While Charles is expected to lead the Huskies in the post, first team All-BIG EAST performer junior Renee Montgomery is back for her third consecutive season as the starting point guard and should be a stabilizer in the backcourt. Montgomery averaged a team-best 13.3 points and 4.5 assists per game in addition to swiping 70 steals.

Senior Mel Thomas returns at the off-guard and should continue her cement herself as one of the nation's top 3-point shooters. As a junior, Thomas knocked in 87 treys, which ranks as the third highest single-season total in UConn annals.

Returning on the wing is junior Kalana Greene. In addition to the rapid development in her offensive game a year ago, which saw her average 12.5 ppg, Greene established herself as one of the top rebounding guards nationally. She started all 36 games for the Huskies last season and is expected to be one of the team's top playmakers in 2007-08.

The final of the five returning starters is senior Charde Houston, fresh off her most well-rounded season which saw her rank among the BIG EAST Conference's leaders in scoring, field goal percentage, rebounding, steals and blocks. The offensive-minded forward should prove to be a vital cog in the Huskies' well diversified offensive attack this season.

Depth-wise at guard the Huskies boast one of the best change-of-pace guards in the country with the return of senior Ketia Swanier. Swanier, who regularly is the first guard off the bench, offers Connecticut a solid ball handler with tremendous speed and quickness. Swanier made her mark last season while filling her role as she ranked among the BIG EAST's leaders in assists, assist/turnover ratio and steals while appearing in each of UConn's 36 games as a reserve.

Adding to the Huskies reserve options at guard will be Tahirah Williams, an athletic player who has the ability to give the Huskies an energy jolt at both ends of the floor.

Sophomores Meghan Gardler and Jacquie Fernandes also will compete for extended playing time during their second seasons at the guard and wing slots.

A trio of players return in the post, with a range of experience. Senior Brittany Hunter is back for her third and final season at UConn and despite a nagging knee injury, will be looked to provide some key minutes for the Huskies in the paint this season. Hunter was productive last year in limited time as she posted averages of 5.6 points and 3.9 rebounds while playing just 8.9 minutes per contest.

Providing the Huskies further depth in the paint will be junior Cassie Kerns and sophomore Kaili McLaren. McLaren, a BIG EAST All-Freshman Team selection a year ago, should see increased playing time after a solid summer of off-season work that has added a new element to her game that already included the ability to consistently knock down the mid-range shot. Kerns is another post option with the capability of shooting from the perimeter and should have increased opportunities to see floor time in 2007-08.

THE HUSKIES

REVIEW

RECORDS

BRUCE COHEN
CPIA Director

The University of Connecticut is committed to each of its basketball players, and all of its student-athletes, as a total person. Participation in athletics is important, but it represents only one aspect of a basketball player's college experience.

At the University of Connecticut, academic achievement is the primary concern. Impressively, the UConn student-athlete retention rate has been 99.0 percent.

The University's commitment to the student-athlete is a dual one.

Participation on the basketball court is not viewed as an obstacle to the attainment of one's educational goals, rather it is seen as a complementary activity. Each supports the other. Athletic excellence is stressed, but academic achievement is never compromised - indeed, it is given the utmost priority.

The University realizes that basketball players and all student-athletes, due to their academic involvement, are required to commit a large percentage of their personal time to University sponsored athletic activities.

For this reason, the University recognizes the need for a support program for its intercollegiate athletes.

The Counseling Program for Intercollegiate Athletes (CPIA) constantly assists all student-athletes in achieving their academic goals. The CPIA staff serves as a liaison to the academic faculty, the Division of Athletics, and the student-athlete.

In serving as a liaison between the UConn student-athletes and University faculty and staff, the CPIA counselors also provide assistance in securing appropriate support services available with the University. These include orientation for student-athletes, supervised study halls, individual tutors and tutorial centers (an English/Writing Center, Math Center and Reading Center) and learning skills seminars.

The writing lab and computers are networked to a national database which allow all student-athletes to do research at their actual computer stations.

A counselor is assigned to work with each intercollegiate team and working directly with the UConn women's basketball program as a Faculty Advisor within CPIA is Bruce Cohen, Director of the Counseling Program for Intercollegiate Athletes.

Cohen monitors all aspects of each UConn basketball player's academic life, including class schedule, arranging for tutors and progress toward a degree.

The study lab used by the UConn women's basketball team is located adjacent to the Alumni Court in the Harry A. Gampel Pavilion.

ROSEMARY RAGLE
WBB Athletic Trainer

The Department of Sports Medicine in the University of Connecticut Division of Athletics works as an integrated multidisciplinary team whose purpose is to provide the optimal, safe environment for the basketball student-athletes to train and participate in their sport.

The staff takes great pride in the individual attention paid to each student-athlete. They are devoted to preventing injury, rapidly diagnosing and treating injury, and maximizing athletic performance. The disciplines of athletic training, strength and conditioning, sports medicine, orthopaedic sports medicine, optometry, nutrition, exercise physiology, and psychology work in concert to provide comprehensive care for the basketball student-athlete.

The team is spearheaded by Rosemary Ragle, MS, ATC, the women's basketball Athletic Trainer and Assistant Athletic Trainer. Ragle, who has worked with the women's basketball program since the 1999-00 season, earned her Masters of Science from LSU in 1998.

Physician coverage is led by Jeffrey Anderson, M.D., the Director of Sports Medicine and Team Physician Thomas Trojjan, M.D.. The Orthopaedic Sports Medicine Specialists for the team include Dr. Michael Joyce of the Orthopedic Sports Specialists in Galastonbury, Dr. Barry Messenger of Sports Medicine and Orthopedic Surgery and Dr. Robert Arciero and Gus Mazzocca of the University of Connecticut Health Center Department of Orthopaedics in Farmington.

The Department of Sports Medicine works intimately with the Departments of Kinesiology and Nutritional Sciences on the University of Connecticut campus. This affords the student-athletes with the input of several nationally recognized exercise scientists. This cooperation also keeps the sports medicine staff at the cutting edge of developments in the fields of human performance and sports nutrition. Members of the sports medicine staff are actively engaged in research that directly benefits the care of the basketball student-athletes.

The UConn Basketball Sports Medicine team is housed in state-of-the-art facilities in the Harry A. Gampel Pavilion, which were completed in October of 2002.

The Department of Sports Medicine at the University of Connecticut plays a critical role in assuring that all UConn student-athletes have 24-hour access to the finest medical support and quality health care possible. Through patient care and ongoing research and education, the department continues to provide Husky teams a competitive edge from the medical perspective.
